

The White Family Picture Album

Compiled by Peter White

Forward

This idea for this album came about when photos that our mother had collected and saved were shared among The four remaining White children, Peter, Judy, Jim and Faith. More recently, Faith sent me a collection of older photos that were part of the collection, which featured Mother's parents and grandparents. This got me to thinking that with the collection we now have, it would make a very good pictorial history of our family during our childhood, as well as reaching back a couple of generations, and of course, forward to – more or less – the present time.

Our parents, Louise and John Everett White (aka Paul White), were virtually migratory during our childhood resulting in us kids going to numerous schools and living in a variety of houses across the United States. Easter was the time that Dad often took photos of us kids in various towns and cities, and these feature strongly in this album. The first page is a sort of an historical 'map' of our family's travels from 1942 to about 1978. This should allow the photos that follow to be put into some sort of geographic perspective.

Like any enterprise like this, it can be never ending. This is the first go, if you will, and I hope that all who look at it will send me any relevant photos that would help fill in the gaps, as well as providing more family history to the present generation of children. Who knows? This might be a true historical archive for our family for a long time to come.

Afterword

I've ended the photo album here because I have no photos of the family between the last picture in 1960 and 1978. In this time period:

The family moved to Ephrata WA, and Peter went to Gonzaga University and then joined the Navy.

Jim, Judy, Tim and Faith completed high school and went their separate ways.

The family moved a number of times after leaving Ephrata and I have no photos of any of the places the family lived in in this period. A few pictures I have of Paul & Louise and the children will be included in the next volume.

Volume 2 will include photos of the White children and their kids. Any photos people would like to send me – either as a print (which will be returned), or a digital copy (preferably jpegs), would be greatly appreciated.
